of 1850. It will be berne in mind that the whole South, with three or four exceptions, Whigs and Democrats, voted for the Nebraska-Kansas bill; that every representative from Kentucky voted for it; that both the Kentucky Senators voted for it. It is not worth while, at present, to defend the act before Southern people. It was a m. asure very distasteful to Abolitioniste, and very acceptable to the S uth; and but one voice in Kentucky was raised against it, and that one has a very black party, as the properest men on record. It is now conceded by all who have lately been in the Northwest, that the contest is between Fremont and Buchanan; Fillmere's supporters being few and far between. The organs may blow and lie about it ; but there are too many Democrats and Know-Nothings who have lately been authorized to regulate it, in this article. When in the Northwest, to allow any chance for deception. Ask any man who has been in Indiana or Illinois lately, and he will tell you that the contest State into the Union, not a word is said about elavery. LECOMPTON, KANSAS TER., July 12, 1856. Messre, Epirons: In a previous letter of mine which appeared in the columns of your paper s short time since, the State of affairs then presented was certainly very sad and depicrable, and highly discouraging on the industrial emigrants, who would come here to seek quiet homes, and do their fighting at the ballot-box. But there have been times in the history of Kansas when the government of this Territory has been set at defiance, the laws wholly disregarded, and the offiers of the law have been basely and cowardly assassinated while in the performance of their awful duty. It became absolutely necessary nvoka the strong arm of the military to maintai the supremacy of the law, and quell these rebels The leaders of this rebel band proclaimed that they were prepared to and would resist the execution of the laws, and that for this purpose they wer amply supplied with cannon and Sharpe's rifler and had their forts and fortifications, and would resist the laws to the last drop of their blood The issue was made, the time came, when these grave assertious were to have been made good, but they ingloriously fied. They too well knew that the determination of American Militia was such as would not bear trifling with, hence when they were drawn up in front of the fortified city Lawrence the robal band fled. They described Lawrence, and went to Tepeka, for the purpose of protection the b gas Legislature in its session there, but, as at Lawrence, they would not face in masic. Тено Ссинту, Ку., July 18, 1856. Mesers. Epirus: I had the pleasure on Monday last of listening to big Jim Russell, who is regarda reproach upon his whole life, before they set his vituperation to such an extent as to render himself perfectly ridiculous. He said that the All intelligent men will understand, that the contest was not between Buchanan and Fillmore but between Fillmore and Fremont. He called on the Democrats an! O.d-Line Whigs to rally to the support of Fillmore; by doing this the Union would be saved. He said that all of the foreigners North, and most of them in the Scathern States, would vote for Frement. He then said that the American party had to contend with the combination of Irish, Dutch, Portuguese, Chinese, Devileer, and all other sort of eee, who would support Mr. Buchanan. The Democracy present could not understand how those poor foreigners could vote both for Buchanan and Fremont. He said but little about the Roman Catholics; he did not make them appear to be as desperate as they were represented to have been last summer by the dema-gogues of Son hern Kentucky. He read several of Mr. Fillmere's speeches with much emphasis; but Grange to say, hencever read his Eric letter; no, he lid not even allude to it. He was called on by an old Democrat in the honse to state whether Mr. hesitate to disparage him if it would answer a Fillmore was in favor of the Kansas-Nebrasha bill or not. He evaded the interrogation. He was called on again and again, but no answer. After he had cencladed his remarks he said that he would answer the question by reading one of Mr. Fillmore's speechos. He read the speech, but the question was not answered; it was more mistified

ACCOUNT BY ANOTHER REPORTER.

The locometive Aramicge, under the charge of conductor Win. Vanetaveren, left Fort Washington station, 1½ miles below Gwynedd, at 6 a'cock 14 mins. There were only about twenty passengers on the train, which consisted if a lecomotive tender, a sancking and baggage car, and one passenger car.

When the train was at the station the conductor inquired if the excursion train had arrived. A gentleman answered in the nigative. The con uctor said "they ought to be np" and immediately gave the word, "right"—the bell washing and the train proceeded down at a slow rate—the engineer constantly sounding his whistle. The collision took place about 100 wards north of Devery, Lang and 124 miles from Philadelphia. The collision took place about 100 yards north of Dewey's Lane and 121/miles from Philadelphia.

The up train was drawn by leconcilve Sharkamaxon, Wm. Harris, Engineer, who was so dreadfully injured that he soon died.

The train was nuder the charge of conductor A. Hopple, who had one of his legs broken.

They were going at a rapid rate, and as the trains met at a short enrye, could not discern the trains coming down until they were within a few train coming down until they were within a few yards of each other.

The np-train consisted of twelve passenger care a baggage car, a locomotive and tender. It is es-timated that there were ever eleven hundred persons on this train, of which over one-balf were mall children.

The next down train left Gwynedd at 7:22, and arrived at the scene of the disaster at 7:40—the proper time. Conductor Henry Keyser and the Engineers of the locametive Cohecksink, at once set to work and rendered every assistance that humanity could dictate. They served water, procured sottees, physicians, and did everything that it was possible for any men to do.

The crash of the two trains was distinctly heard mall children. The crash of the two trains was distinctly hear at the hotel at Fort Washington, and for a dis-tance of over a mile ont at Dewey's Lane. All the physicians in the neighboring towns were summoned to the place and used their best efforts to relieve the wounded. Among those present were, Dr. J. McCres, of Chestant Hill; Dr. S.

The most horrible sight of all was that of the burning car—for in a few minutes after the collision the fire sured results the scale. lision, the fire spread rapidly through the broken remnants, burning and reasting to dear a nineteen men, women, and obildren. The greats and shouts

A row of men was at once formed and buckets need to extingnish the flames, but they were nnsnoceesful. A large number of persons were taken from the wreck, slightly brnised, who made hair-breadth escapes from being burned to death. The farmers in the vicinity rendered every assistance in their power, except one man, who de-manded $10 for a wagon to go a mile for a phy-sioian. Among those partienlarly active were Mr. Chas. P. Wentz, Mr. C. Spencer, and Mr. Wm. Sheetz. The locanetive Cohecasink, under charge of Mr. Wm. Shultz, Superintendent of Motive Power, went np at 10 o'clock, and brought down a portion of the dead and wounded.

The scene, u on the arrival at Master street, beggers description—the fathers and methers and relatives of the exensionists having assembled relatives of the excursionists having assembled there to the number of 2,000, to learn the result of the dreadful catastrophe.

Officors Chas. Burns, John McCcurt, John Sallor, and others of the Seventeenth Ward, went up and rendered every assistance in their power.

Mr. John H. Aineworth, the Superintendent of the baggage department, was on the down train, but escaped uninjured. He made an almost superhuman effort to resoue those in the burning cars, and was particularly attentive to the wounded.

ARRIVAL OF THE QUAKER CITY.

The steamship Quaker City arrived to-lay from solic via Havana. She left Havana on the evenng of the 18th inst, and brings 150 passengers. There is no political news of importance. The clipper ship War Hawk, from Swaten, had ended a cargo of 588 coolies, 42 having died on the passage from suicide and disease. The yellow fever provails to some extent in the nvirons of Havana, though there are but few ases in the city.

General Coucha was down with the fever. Sugar is less setive; stock 250,000 boxes.
